

Soviet Charges Diplomatic Circles Filled With Hypocrisy and Lies

MUNICH MEET AROUSES IRE OF LITVINOFF

League Urged To Supervise Withdrawal Foreign Soldiers From Spain

GENEVA, Sept. 30.—The Soviet Union's ambassador at foreign affairs, Maxim Litvinoff, today expressed his indignation at the Munich conference, which he said was a "hypocritical and lying" affair.

"Comrade Maxim Litvinoff said to urge appointment of a League committee to supervise withdrawal of foreign soldiers from the government side of the Spanish civil war. (The Spanish government has estimated there were 10,000 foreign troops in Spain and 100,000 with the insurgents.)

WOULD BE HARMLESS

"Such a move, Litvinoff said, would be harmless, not even involving the withdrawal of the Soviet troops from Europe before whom such a delegation felt it necessary to tremble."

He would clear the international atmosphere of "its hypocritical and lying" character.

The Spanish government's request for League supervision of the withdrawal was referred to the assembly after consideration by the assembly members.

TWO LEADING MOVES

There were two other outstanding League moves today:

1.—The assembly unanimously passed a resolution regarding the League's efforts to preserve general peace in the world.

President Roosevelt's peace message.

The assembly is convinced that existing conditions are capable of being solved by peaceful means.

2.—The council in secret session drew up a report that Article XVI of the League constitution requires measures for aggressive warfare membership in the league should be applicable only at the discretion of individual league members.

The decision was considered a victory for the "neutral bloc" of Scandinavian nations, the Netherlands and Belgium.

Warsaw

POLES AWAIT ANSWER FROM CZECHOSLOVAKS

WARSAW, Sept. 30.—Official Polish figures last night placed at 10 the number of Poles killed in incidents on the Polish-Czechoslovak border during the recent tension.

The newspaper Wzrost Warsaw also alleged a number of deaths were caused by electrified wire strung along the frontier by the Czechoslovak government.

Reports of new frontier incidents and shootings occurred, for the most part, at night when Poles attacked the line from Czechoslovakia.

The government continued to insist that the Czechoslovak side in the Polish note which contained demands for territorial rectification was a "provocation" to settle the Polish minority question.

Prague

CZECHS GLOOMY OVER OUTCOME OF CONFERENCE

PRAGUE, Sept. 30.—Foreboding gloom, coupled with a kind of fatalism, pervaded Prague today while Czechoslovakian press was being settled by the outcome of the Munich conference.

Residents discussed gloomily what lay ahead for the republic after a decision between Germany, Great Britain, France and Italy.

The government announced it had agreed in principle, with some reservations, to a British proposal for gradual application of the French-British plan to rectify Czechoslovakia's frontiers.

The Czechoslovak minister to Berlin carried the government's stand to the Munich conference by air.

Opinion in Prague was that whatever was decided between the four-power leaders, there could be no doubt that Czechoslovakia would be the loser.

Government Claims Conquests In Spain

MEDYDAYS, France, Sept. 30.—Diplomats from Barcelona last night on the subject of the fighting in Lilla between heavy tanks had reconquered two important hill positions on Spain's River front. The positions, near high water, were taken by the Nationalists.

The Nationalists, however, were not the insurgents Tuesday.

HOPE FRANCE, GERMANY WILL LIVE IN PEACE

Goering Jubilant Over Munich Pact—Praises Daladier

By GERALD JOUVE

Copyright, 1938 by The New Yorker Magazine, Inc. Sept. 30.—Hope France and Germany would now live side by side in a durable peace was expressed by Field Marshal Hermann Goering today in a radio interview at the Hotel of the Four Seasons.

Goering, jubilant and gratified over the Munich agreement and high in his praise of Premier Edouard Daladier.

"The statement which met at Munich have just won a very great victory, and that victory's name is peace," Goering said. "As a journalist living in Berlin you have been able to see during the last weeks of acute tension no signs of hatred or Chauvinism in Germany against France. Nothing must prevent our two great peoples, who esteem each other so much, from living in peace side by side."

PEACE AND JUSTICE

"I am particularly happy to know that French ex-combatants will participate in the international operation envisaged in Czechoslovakia. Nothing must prevent our two great peoples, who esteem each other so much, from living in peace side by side."

Goering, however, expressed his belief that the four countries which participated in the meeting at Munich can be equally satisfied with the result of the conference.

SIMILAR SENTIMENTS

Similar sentiments were expressed by Premier Daladier in an interview with a correspondent of the official German New Agency.

"I have had the pleasure to note myself that in Germany there is no feeling of hatred or hostility toward France," Daladier said. "You can be sure that the French on their part bear no feelings of hostility toward Germany. This was an event during the period of diplomatic tension and military preparations through which we have just passed."

Legion Backs Foster

OTTAWA, Sept. 30.—"Wholehearted approval" has been given by the Canadian Legion to the offer made some days ago by Col. W. Foster, Dominion president, which placed all resources of the organization at the disposal of the British government in the event of war.

According to J. R. Bowler, general secretary.

But they said it was impossible that Prime Minister Chamberlain had found opportunity to make with Premier Mussolini the question of the Italian-British friendship agreement.

The accord has been pending, however, since it was signed last Easter because Italian troops must be withdrawn from Spain before Great Britain will put it into effect.

The belief in diplomatic circles was that negotiations to hasten a settlement by the withdrawal of at least some Italian troops must come now that the chiefs of the British and British governments have established personal contact.

Prime Minister Chamberlain never had been the possibility.

IL DUCE HAILED

Italians hailed the returning Duce as a conqueror and "savior of the European people." For the Fascists, the four-power Munich accord is hailed Germany by cutting up Czechoslovakia was a "great victory."

Fascists were pleased with two particular phases of the Munich understanding. One was that war was averted in the matter of the restoration of the Sudeten German frontiers to the Czechoslovak state.

Another was that the restoration of the frontiers was a "great victory" for the Italian people.

The other was that the agreement to meet again in case of a new crisis was a "great victory" for the Italian people.

Hitter Wins Sudetenland At Conference—Czech Acceptance Of Agreement Required To Assure Peace In Europe

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MUNICH, Sept. 30.—An agreement was signed here today by Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany designed to end the Czechoslovak-German crisis and give the world reprieve from war.

In general terms this agreement provided for occupation by Germany of the Sudeten areas of the Czechoslovak Republic, starting tomorrow, and final determination of the republic's new boundaries by a commission representing the four powers and Czechoslovakia.

In addition to the areas to be occupied immediately, proposals to determine future occupation will be held in other areas under conditions set by the international commission.

CZECHS GET AGREEMENT

At 2 a. m. (6 p. m. M.C.T. Thursday) the agreement was signed by two representatives of the Czechoslovak government by Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain and Premier Daladier of France, who indicated it must be accepted for the sake of Germany.

Naturally, it would not come into operation if the Prague government agreed to it without their consent. It was expected that there would be every hope here it would be approved by President Benes and Premier General Benes, thus removing the last hurdle in the immediate peace of Europe.

This hope was based on the fact that the new agreement deals in general lines the Anglo-French plan which Czechoslovakia already accepted, but it is an anticipated form.

10-HOUR CONFERENCE

The agreement was signed at the end of 10 hours of conferences among Chamberlain, Daladier, Benes, Mussolini and Hitler. Chamberlain and Daladier, former Hitler in the Bavarian crisis, had signed the agreement in the morning of the 29th but it was not until the afternoon of the 30th that the agreement was signed.

When Mr. Chamberlain returned to his hotel at 1:30 a. m. through long rows of black-shirted storm troops, he was cheered, and his car was surrounded by a throng of admirers. He was escorted, and when he reached his hotel, he was greeted by a throng of admirers.

Under terms of the agreement, Germany will take over part of the Sudetenland—Hitler's goal. The "Dachau" law will be in his final ultimatum as the day he would send an expeditionary force into Czechoslovakia unless his terms were met.

DRAFT MAP

Included in the agreement was a map on which were marked four areas to be occupied by Germany. The agreement was signed by Chamberlain, Daladier, Benes, Mussolini and Hitler.

Britain and France decided their willingness to guarantee the borders of the Czechoslovak Republic. Germany and Italy withdrew their assurance until the Polish and Hungarian minority question in Czechoslovakia was settled.

PERFUME BAFLED HIM

A British spokesman said, however, they were roughly as follows: Zone one takes in Krumlov, along the Czechoslovak-Austrian border. This is the smallest of the zones.

Zone two includes Aush, Eger, Karlovy Vary (Karlsbad), Marienbad. Zone three is along the Silesian border. Zone four is along the Saxon border.

How deep these zones go into Czechoslovakia was not explained. Mussolini leaves Premier Chamberlain to decide whether to accept the agreement.

Mr. Chamberlain planned to leave the afternoon after a rest from the peace efforts he started at Berchtesgaden Sept. 15 and to return here today. He will report to the house of commons tomorrow.

The line of Daladier's departure was not disclosed. He was expected to leave tomorrow after a rest from the peace efforts he started at Berchtesgaden Sept. 15 and to return here today.

Excuse, unforgettable, the scent of a rare perfume was wafted across the tables to Bob Tait almost at the moment band-leader Lou Dombey left dead before his orchestra.

Tait was to recognize that scent again, next time as a major clue to one of the strangest murders on record. But it baffled him to the end. How it told in a fantastic new serial to commence soon.

Mr. Chamberlain's services already had been a public tribute from Hitler in his Sportsplatz on Monday night in Berlin. But, the editor said, Hitler did not have the measure of the French Premier until today.

The French proposal was said to have been that Mussolini back up the idea of a four-power get-together. A prominent Nazi editor said the agreement marked a change of Hitler's attitude toward democracy. This source said the Fuehrer had been found in Mr. Chamberlain and Premier Daladier two men whom he could not but respect.

The Fuehrer was reported to have planned the stock Frenchman "a greater secret" (a real hero). German delegation was thoroughly convinced Daladier was one of the most determined champions of peaceful settlement.

BUDGET PLAN CHURCH MONEY IS APPROVED

Newfoundland Worker Tells Of Missionaries Trouble In Field

TORONTO, Sept. 30.—Brought to attention by the eighth missionary council of the United Church of Canada Thursday night in its efforts on behalf of the missionary and maintenance fund were proving faith because human contacts had been overlooked and human interest undiminished.

Miss Millicent Howse, of Carleton Place, Newfoundland, told the committee it was the conviction of some in Africa and in the east that the "M. and M. fund is dead," she believed, and was capable of being revitalized.

COULD AROUSE PEOPLE

The missionary and maintenance fund finances the missionary work of the church, the pension fund, human and social and educational work.

Miss Howse said she believed in the budget system of finance and it would help if the human side was overlooked. She had, however, saved her opinion since coming to the general council. It was not quite dead, she believed, and was capable of being revitalized.

TIME LIMIT DISCUSSED

Discussion followed presentation of the report of a committee to consider the time limit of the question of a pastoral time limit and other matters.

G. W. Mann, C. C. Toronto, declared that at the time of church union a definite statement would be made that the pastoral time would be without a time limit.

Retires CASE AGAINST DIONNES RULED OUT BY JUDGE

Jury Instructed To Find No Conspiracy In Million Dor Suit

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Premier Ivan I. Spear lost out in federal court Thursday in his attempt to collect $100,000 damages for alleged breach of a contract to exploit the Dionne quintuplets of Canada.

Judge John P. Barnes instructed the jury which began hearing the case Tuesday, to find no conspiracy by Dr. Allan Roy Dufre, the quintuplets' father, and three other defendants to breach the contract on the ground evidence did not support the allegation. The case ended without testimony by the defendant.

Judge Barnes in his ruling said: "I think there is a complete absence of evidence, not even, to my mind, a scintilla of evidence—that the defendants Kregge, Woolworth and Fether conspired to do anything."

With regard to Dr. Dufre, the court said: "I do not find in the record any evidence of his having conspired with anyone, with the exception of Olive Dionne (father of the quintuplets) to breach his contract with Spear."

Spear alleged Dionne was free to sell the quintuplets through the agency of his own company, but that he had a picture book about them and in Kregge and Woolworth stores violated his contract.

A Lively Vocabulary Builds Up Your Charm

Good Talk Brings Good Times
What a little chatter Sally of Her lively vocabulary fascinates Ted.

At the big game he loves to see her all aglow about "the gods move," "the crowd's excited roar," "the drum major who struts like a pouter pigeon."

Sally's clever, she wasn't born with the right words for every occasion on the tip of her tongue. But she keeps her ears open, watches newspapers and magazines for vivid new ways of saying things.

And she weeds errors and trite, hearing slang out of her vocabulary as quickly as she spots them. You'll never find her boring a date with tiresome expressions like "and how," "you're telling me," "no kidding."

Or making a bad impression by saying "broadcasted" for broadcast, "dark-completed" for dark-completing, "dove" for dove, or "this man" for human beings.

Mad Hats and Jitterbugs Bode Evil

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20. — Mad hats and the jitterbug craze are demonstrations of the public's subconscious anticipation of trouble in the world, movie stylist Mr. Kelly theorized today.

Wars and threats of war have a direct effect on women's fashions, Kelly said, and sometimes he added, feminine styles predict the possibility of war months ahead of actual news about it.

Women who are afraid to think what may happen hide their concern behind those hats and suddenly elaborate clothes. It was at just before 1914 when smart women wore the most bizarre clothes in history. When the war ended, clothes go back to strict simplicity.

Fanciful dances—these jitterbug jamborees—are as much an indication of the "absolutely ridiculous" hats that there is liable to be trouble ahead.

As time goes on, more and more hats will come to accept much offerings in the way of homes. The approach of civilization gradually cuts down the natural locations for the nests of birds, and they come look more favorably on man-built houses.

Yes That's What We Said—Hats

Reminiscent of the horseless carriage days is this quaint velvet hat, upper left, trimmed lavishly with ostrich. A twisted band of the material goes around the back, holding the hat on and the upturned cuff, sure up. The black velvet turban, centre, gets its high look from velvet bows in colors shading from rose through fuchsia and purple to black. The miniature mode, upper right, consists of a twisted band of mink around a jewel-like crown of golden brown velvet from which rises two deeper brown wings.

DOROTHY DIX Says:

A FAMOUS portrait painter mused the decadence of beauty in women and declares that the modern girl is not nearly so good-looking as was her grand mother.

There are sad and startling words from one who should know where he speaks, inasmuch as he spends his life in portraying the feminine form, more or less divine, but a casual look around among the ladies of our acquaintance will incline most of us to agree with him.

Of course, it may be that the women of the past were not so beautiful as they were painted and as they live in tradition. Very likely the artist, flattered, grandiose and a more classical picture than she really possessed, and that is why Grandfather runs a poor second to her in public. But certainly we have to admit that there is now no woman whose face could launch a thousand ships. We haven't even an authentic Lillian Russell or Langtry in our midst; this in spite of the fact that never before in the history of the world has the cultivation of beauty been such an obsession with women as now, and that they spend a large part of their time and millions of dollars annually in an attempt to acquire synthetic good looks.

It has been said that a woman's beauty consists of 25 per cent. of her personality, hence, if it is true, as the artist says, that women are not so pretty now as they used to be, it is because they fall down on the latter two qualifications.

They have improved upon nature. No woman now is as homely as God made her, unless she is too stupid or lazy to use the artifice at her command. If she is fast she can reduce herself to a stringbean figure. If she is shallow she can buy a peach-and-cream complexion at a department store. If she has stringy, fat-colored hair she can turn it into such golden curls as only the beauties of fairy stories are born with.

No far as nature goes the modern girl has a distinct advantage over Grandmother in looks, but when it comes to clothes, which are not only the frame that sets off a woman's beauty, but also evinces an illusion of beauty, even when it is not there, Grandmother scores again, in spite of her hoop-skirts and bustles, her lack of the chiffon, and the thousand and one trifles, ornaments and aids to beauty which are all the modern girl's disposal.

For Grandmother never made a figure of fun of herself by appearing in public in bric-a-brac that reveal how closely the feminine figure resembles a beet. She did not let the searchlight on the defects of her anatomy by going around in shorts. If she had bow legs, or knobby knees, her flowing skirts would have concealed them, and she presented to the eye only lines of beauty.

Fifty per cent of a woman's beauty is in her personality. That's true. If women are not as beautiful as they were in the past it is because they have lost something that did far more to make a woman's face beautiful than regularity of feature or a peach-and-cream complexion. It was an expression of gentleness, sweetness, of purity and tenderness. It was something of the spirit that glowed through even a homely face like a light through an alabaster vase and made it lovely.

But after all, beauty is in the eye of the beholder, and whether women are more beautiful than they were in the past, depends upon your taste in 'em. DOROTHY DIX.

MEN ARE NOT BETTER DRIVERS THAN WOMEN

According to tests made by Dr. A. R. Laue, scientist of Iowa State College, there is no difference in general ability of men and women when it comes to driving automobiles. The only respect in which women are inferior to men in driving was found to be in their strength of grip on the wheel. Out of 2,000 tests on both men and women, it was found that neither was superior to the other sex in natural ability as drivers. The reason women are said to be poorer drivers is that they have less practice at driving. Women who drive as much as men do are equally good drivers, the survey reported.

According To Culbertson

By HAY CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Is a point social game I had the opportunity to try out one of the expert rules that I had read in your column. It worked beautifully. Now I hope that you will tell me that it was a good application of the rule. It was the dealer, South, when the following hand occurred.

WEST
EAST
A 10 7
K 5 4
Q 3 2
J 8 6 5 4 3

EAST
A 10 7
K 5 4
Q 3 2
J 8 6 5 4 3

"With North-South vulnerable, the bidding proceeded:

West North South East
1 diamond Pass 1 spade Pass
2 hearts Pass 2 no-trumps Pass
3 diamonds Pass 4 hearts Pass
4 hearts Pass 5 hearts Double
Redouble Pass Pass Pass

"My bid of six hearts was made because I remembered your rule that a hand very often plays better with the short suit as trump than with the long. When East doubled I guessed that he was just doubting on general principles or 'for fun,' and my redouble had the same basis. In justification of it, however, I point out that East was on my right and that I could count on picking up some of his cards by leads from dummy. Well, anyway, as the cards lay, the slam in hearts should be made against any defense, whereas only five diamonds were possible.

"West led the spade ace, which I trumped. After taking one round of diamonds, I entered dummy with the ace of clubs for one heart finesse and re-entered it with a diamond ruff for a second heart finesse. The only trick I had in loss was a heart.

"I should like to have you comment on the bidding. In view of North's repeated spade bidding, showing lack of fit, the bidding of the slam justified and, if so, was there a better way in which it could have been reached?
P. P. W., New York."

I am slightly embarrassed by this letter because I must say what P. P. W. asked me not to say; that he misapprehended my advice about selecting the trump suit.

It is true that four trumps in one partner's hand and four in the other's usually are preferable to a 5-3, or sometimes even a 6-2 division, but I never have advocated a high contract based on a lot of seven trumps. It must be borne in mind that when declarer has eight trumps at his disposal he has an 8-3 advantage over the defenders, but that seven trumps gives him only a narrow 7-4 margin.

Moreover, only under exceptional circumstances should a player mention a suit held but before he has dealt a seven card suit at least once, preferably twice. Admitting that he has a long suit, the defender, if he did not contract, I think the following bidding would have more to the lines of bidding:

West North South East
1 diamond Pass 1 spade Pass
2 diamonds Pass 3 spades Pass
3 diamonds Pass 5 spades Pass
Pass Pass

I do not say that six spades would be a theoretically better contract, but on a bid by bid basis the above sequence hardly can be criticized. After South's strong three diamond bid North cannot fail to visualize a slam and with seven trumps held by K Q J 9, would be a stay to count more than one heart in the suit.

Incidentally, a spade slam would be just as good a contract as was, and considerably safer against a severe penalty.

Alberta Headed For All-Time Grain Movement Record This Year

HIGH MARK OF SEPTEMBER '28 IS SURPASSED

Bumper Movement Of 10 Years Ago Exceeded For This Month

CALGARY, Sept. 28.—(Grain movement in Alberta for September has surpassed the bumper movement of 10 years ago exceeded for this month.

In September, 1928, the movement of grain over the Alberta railway divisions was 12,000 cars. This year, said R. W. Drew, Canadian Pacific Railway freight agent, the total will be close to 15,000 cars. The average carload is 1,750 bushels of wheat.

With greater demand in the east, the movement for the first two weeks has been the head-of-the-takes terminals, a reversal of the heavy shipments to Vancouver earlier in the month.

Shipments from Calgary Wednesday totalled 80 cars, 143 booked for Fort William terminals, 40 for Vancouver and 238 in government terminal elevators in Alberta.

While board shipments have been moving eastward but it was indicated today a heavier movement to the Pacific coast may be expected next week.

to be transferred to Halifax although it was intimated some might go to Vancouver for special training. National defence department officials would not comment on the report but it was learned authoritatively there has been no general cancellation of leaves for the army, air force or navy.

Department officials would neither confirm nor deny another report from Montreal, Ont., that officers and men of No. 8 torpedo bombing squadron of the R.C.A.F. were being transferred to Halifax for duty shortly. It could not be determined whether the aircraft might leave Ottawa and Toronto.

Failure of the government to cut the defence budget within a week will result in a general strike, it was learned today.

Negotiations between the U.M.W.A. and coal operators in the field have reached an impasse. The referendum would decide whether the U.M.W.A., a C.I.O. affiliate or the Canadian Confederation of Labor should organize workers in the field.

CHAPTER III
They sat there in the little cubbyhole of an office—Pat and Larry—while the day drew to a close round the clock. The boy's words had shaken her more than she realized.

Bill, young, idealistic, with the sparkle of his future life in his eyes, was now being laid, waiting to sacrifice one of his stand-ards to aid her. Pat looked at his profile there in the late afternoon light. In all probability his testimony would aid Larry, would help clear his defense, free him from the fate that a conviction would result in. But his testimony would also mean that for all the rest of his life he would know that he had permitted his love to be used to help the man to whom she was engaged.

It meant as he grew older and more aware of what he had done and that in court he would have to take her down from the pedestal she had occupied as his ideal. The family—sincere, honest, conscientious—would be disgraced. And her felt of loyalty would be ugly.

She pressed her hands against her cheeks, trying to hold back the tears that were streaming down her face. "You can't do it, if Larry is innocent he can prove it to the jury. You can't do it, if Larry is innocent he can prove it to the jury. You can't do it, if Larry is innocent he can prove it to the jury."

HITLER'S ARMY BOSS WATCHES EUROPE CRISIS

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., Sept. 28.—As Chancellor Hitler played a game of life and death in Europe Thursday, his wartime superior was gathering in the harvest from his Morrison county farm. He is Albert Patrick. For two years from 1916 to 1918 Hitler was one of five corporals under his command. Patrick, a native Austrian, was following closely the crisis developments. He doesn't think Germany would fight—he simply couldn't afford going through the carnage of the Great War.
